ZWEIHEIT

REINIER MARTÍNEZ | SIMONA ŠTANGOVÁ

An empty living room, forgotten furniture, a couple portraits and a traveller. Can one person belong to more than one place? As we dive into this universe, we begin delving into the nuanced nature of reality, which is full of angles and contradictions. Where do you draw the line of what matters? As usual, it slowly gets more complicated.

Zweiheit is a physical theatre piece questioning how polarizing discourses in their attempt to grasp power, misrepresent almost everything they aspire to explain; while also tackling subjects as migration, gender and identity. With a note of irony, hope and pessimism at equal amounts, we bring the audience along into a journey to defy our own assumptions.
