FRAME OF REFERENCE

Our system is based on constant expansion and capital domination. In a society that has little regard for people and their needs or desires, it appears that we have devolved into a piece of machinery that must run at any cost. Attempting to stand out from the crowd puts us at risk for rejection, reintegration, and more serious repercussions than we may have thought. Is it worth risking safety for freedom?

Frame of reference is a contemporary dance piece, inspired and developed with the idea of diversity in the current society as its central focus. It explores what it is like to feel and behave differently from what is considered "normal" and expected.
